Illustrated Sculpture Workshop with Sergei Isupov

October 12-14th, 2018

PROJECT
ART

Join internationally acclaimed sculptor Sergei Isupov for FIGURE – GROUND: Illustrated Sculpture, an intensive demonstration workshop exploring the sculpted form in clay, the painted surface and development of a personal narrative. At Project Art, in rural Massachusetts, the demonstration workshop is an opportunity to spend a long weekend learning as Isupov leads participants through the techniques of slab construction, underglaze painting, and glaze application over two days. Limited to 20.

The demonstration weekend workshops begin Friday night, with an illustrated lecture and a group dinner (6-9pm), Saturday is a full day of demonstrations (9am–5pm) and includes lunch. Sunday is a half day of demonstration (9am–12pm), lunch is not included. If desired, participants are invited to schedule a 30 minute portfolio review with Isupov and/or Ferrin Contemporary's gallery director, Leslie Ferrin on Sunday afternoon on a first come, first serve basis for an additional fee of $50.

Sergei Isupov lives and works in Cummington, Massachusetts with his wife, Kadri, and daughter, Roosi. Isupov works full-time as an artist and has a long, international resume with works included in numerous public collections and important exhibitions. His work is featured in multiple books, catalogs, and magazines, and is also shared via workshops and lectures at museums, universities and art centers.

Isupov is known for his highly-detailed narrative, ceramic sculptures, which feature completely illustrated in-the-round-paintings. Isupov continues to explore opposites as themes in his work. Emotional exchanges between men and women allude to romance, an affair, or simply mystery. Our own imaginations are asked to fill in and finish the narrative using personal associations.
